

Jamie Bracey Green, Ph.D.
Co-Founder, Think and Grow Farms

Jamie Bracey Green, Ph.D. cofounded Think and Grow Farms with her husband Mark Green. TGF is an urban ag-tech company committed to sustainable development, and not only grows food in converted shipping containers, but is also teaching food insecure residents to understand how to use STEM skills to grow food using less energy and water. Think and Grow Farms is one of the few industrial hemp processors of color in Pennsylvania, focused on fiber based soil remediation. Dr. Bracey Green attended Oberlin College, the Rochester Institute of Technology and Temple University.

She serves on the Pennsylvania State Board of Education, the Pennsylvania Governor's Advisory Board for Diverse, Inclusive & Small Business Opportunities, the PA COVID-19 Recovery Task Force, and the UPITT National STEM PUSH initiative.
